PROFILE

An all around creative type, with a passion for learning new and different things and using these experiences to better myself in other fields.

Communication and people skills are vital to any role and as a holistic developer i feel understanding all parts of a system and how they work together increases my awareness and ability to communicate within a team.

I'm very dedicated and take pride in any and all work i do . I have worked in a number of jobs; teaching, marketing, sales; and believe that each of them has aided me in becoming a well rounded person and worker.

A healthy work life balance is important, and in my spare time i love art, travel, keeping active and involving myself in language and cultural exchanges.
